Revive Scotland aims to support women experiencing domestic in abuse finding a new home away from their existing local authority area, whilst providing wrap around support to make sure that they settle into their new home, feel safe and look forward to a fresh start. Revive Scotland will work with Local Authorities, RSL's and Domestic Abuse Services across Scotland to ensure a smooth transition from one area to another.

Revive Scotland is an expansion of Homefinder UK's move-on service for domestic abuse survivors, Revive. This project was launched by Homefinder UK, in partnership with Wheatley Group, funded by The Scottish Government and administered by SFHA.

Our dedicated team will:

- Support applicants throughout the moving process and assess their housing needs
- Work closely with Homelessness teams and Housing options services to help process each case and ensure a quick and smooth transition to a new home in a new area
- Work closely with Housing Associations or Landlords to identify and secure permanent social housing for domestic abuse victims/survivors and their families
- Provide tailored wraparound support options
- Signpost to other agencies, organisations and services required, to make sure applicants get all the support they need
- Offer follow up support and obtain customer satisfaction feedback on the service
