What is the Specialist Dementia Care Program?

The Specialist Dementia Care Program is a new government initiative that provides individualised care for people who are experiencing severe behavioural and psychological symptoms of dementia and are unable to be adequately cared for in a standard residential aged care setting.

The Specialist Dementia Care Program (SDCP) offers temporary, transitional care to stabilise and reduce a person's behavioural symptoms with the aim of enabling them to transition to a less intensive care setting.

Who can refer

DSA can take client referrals from anyone, including families, residential care home staff, GPs, hospitals, Specialists and Aged Care Assessment Teams, or older persons mental health units. Referrals require supporting documentation from treating clinicians, and appropriate consent.

Benefits for a client

There are a number of benefits for a person with severe behaviours related to their dementia living in an SDCP:

- Tailored and personalised approach to care
- The care environment is specifically designed for a person with dementia
- Specialist expertise in supporting a person with dementia
- Personalised care to stabilise client behaviours to enable supported transition out of an SDCP

“DSA aims to improve the quality of life and care for the person with dementia and their carers when behaviours are impacting their care”

Who is eligible for the Specialist Dementia Care Program?

There are three key principles for eligibility.

The behaviours and psychological symptoms of the person:

1. are primarily as a result of dementia
2. are severe or very severe (aggression, severe agitation, vocalisation).
3. have not responded to trials of other specialist services.

The person is also required to have been assessed to be eligible for placement in a residential aged care home.

Where are the Specialist Dementia Care Units?

The Australian Government aims to establish at least one specialist dementia care unit in each of the 31 Primary Health Network regions.

How we assess for eligibility

Dementia Support Australia assesses whether a person is eligible for the SDCP through its Needs Based Assessment (NBA) program.

Written consent

Dementia Support Australia aims to keep the person living with dementia informed and involved in decisions that affect their care. When this is not possible it's important to gain consent from the legally appointed person responsible for care.

The Needs Based Assessment program can only progress once the service provider has obtained written consent.

A consent form is available to download from dementia.com.au for signing. The signed form can be scanned and emailed, or given to the DSA Consultant as the first step during the assessment.

Length of stay

It is expected that the usual length of stay will be around 12 months, but could be shorter or longer depending on the needs of the individual.

A person does not leave a Specialist Dementia Care Unit until suitable accommodation is found.
